Analysis & opinion

The book worked well in keeping interesting characters, the people in the story are fun to read about, and the dialogues are funny and entertaining conversations, and also author paints a feeling and experiencing the picture of small-town life. The story was moves very slowly. At some scenes I personally felt bore.

Title of the story, Itself says that Mr. Sampath. Mr. Sampath himself is a standout character, because his ability of inspire others and entrepreneurial spirit. His interactions with Srinivas and other characters especially the actors are strongly attracted by Mr. Sampath, are particularly memorable.

The book conveys important message about importance of integrity and authenticity, as Srinivas said, "The trouble is, we are always trying to be something we're not." This quote highlights the tension between appearance and reality.

The book also explores the theme of identity, looks at how people live, think and interact with each other, and also author shares thoughts about customs, values, beliefs of time. The book touches on important topics like power, inequality and social justice. For example, Sampath says, "I'm not a businessman, I'm an artist," it reveals his creative aspirations and desire for self expression.
